What did you find? *

I searched Johnson and found results within the volumes

What questions did this prompted?

None to note

What could be improved or made clearer?

Nothing, its already very clear

Design your own searches on a topic.

For instance look up occurrences of a particular place name, or type of office-holder (e.g. alderman, provost, bailie), or product (e.g. salmon), or references to ships, etc.

What did you search for? *

Ship

What did you find? *

No results

How your sequence of searches using the tool evolved through a few iterations? *

I then changed the spelling variants to 1 and found that the word spelling was 'schip'. I then found the content I was looking for in relation to content involving ships in the volumes. I could then use the search tools to put the content in a chronological order and observe the data in this way.

What did you find? *

When searching for my name which is Dilja, of course nothing came up (being an Icelandic name) but the search engine asked if I meant any of these: dicta, de, ja, dilai, dilay. But when searching for Johnson results relevant to the name search came up.

What questions did this prompted?

No particular question

What could be improved or made clearer?

I think this works fine

Lady

What did you find? *

Mostly religious documents of "our lady/ladi"

How your sequence of searches using the tool evolved through a few iterations? *

I like the search tool a lot. It is easy to use and the fact that the original document comes up along with the the text is a big plus. I think this search engine will not only be useful for this particular project but would be a good addition to other documentation of archives, all over the world ; that is more accessible not only for scholars and academics and others. Good job Team Charlie!

schip, specifically in Scots

I've made my searches more specific each time, looking for more specific things. Another suggestion I've thought of for browsing: would it be possible to browse simply by looking at the original images of the pages? Like we're virtually reading the actual pages?

Making it clearer that you have to check the individual boxes of the paragraphs in order to download the transcripts and also that the download button in the top right corner is just for images, not the transcripts. Maybe it would be easier to have both downloads included in the same button

Design your own searches on a topic.

For instance look up occurrences of a particular place name, or type of office-holder (e.g. alderman, provost, bailie), or product (e.g. salmon), or references to ships, etc.

What did you search for? *

bailies

What did you find? *

Variations of the word "bailies" in documents of varying years

How your sequence of searches using the tool evolved through a few iterations? *

I felt that the more that I was able to search around the system, the more comfortable I was able to get with it. I think that I would really like to try and use this for a research project, I think that would be the best way for me truly test how well I am able to use it.

What did you find? *

Found plenty of results for Johnson, in a variety of documents.

What questions did this prompted?

What could be improved or made clearer?

It was clear enough.

Simple Searching

Can you use the web-site to search for your own name in the documents? If your name gives no results, try using the name "Johnson".

How easy was to do this? *

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
Impossible	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input checked="" type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	Extremely easy

What did you find? *

That if I narrowed the search too much than I would not get any results. And Dates don't come through in this part. Roman numerals did not help either.

What questions did this prompted?

How can I broaden my results, without losing focus?

What could be improved or made clearer?

add a drop bar for years, or to search by reign of a king?

Advanced Searching

Using Advanced Search try adding additional search criteria to your search such as volume, page or date.

What did you find? *

It was fantastic to narrow down my search, but I had the problem of narrowing too much, and not getting any results. Also it would be cool to search using numbers, or by the reign of a king. Also when I searched I could not go back to add more details without retyping all of the information.

What questions did this prompted?

Can there be an added button to revise the search material, without retyping all of the information.

What could be improved or made clearer?

translations from normal numbers to roman numerals or languages to English.

Browsing documents

Aside from searching you can use the web tool to simply browse through the content of the documents.

What could be improved or made clearer?

There could be a label to divide the volumes by reign of king, or with the years that it goes through, in the results display page. It would also be helpful to search by language in these volumes.
